A war on litter and nobody comes?

What if they had a war on litter and nobody came?

Most of San Mateo County's cities have used state funding to clean up their streets, sidewalks, parks and beaches, but seven of them haven't dipped into the "trash stash" yet.

Perhaps the smallest of them is entitled to an honorable discharge. Colma, with 500 residents, was only granted $44 to spend on litter control.

The other cities that haven't used their litter funds are Atherton ($1,176), Brisbane ($331), Foster City ($1,452), Hillsborough ($2,024), Redwood City ($4,874) and San Carlos ($2,552).

Ronald Weaver, San Mateo County's new litter control coordinator, doesn't spend much time worrying about the cities that haven't spent their state funds. He's too busy helping the others put together their litter control programs.

The county and its 19 cities received a total of $137,315 to spend in 1979-80 under Senate Bill 650, the Litter Control, Recycling and Resource Recovery Act.

Daly City, San Bruno and Millbrae have used their budgets to buy litter containers.

Daly City children decorated their city's, San Bruno placed all of its in its city park and Millbrae installed its containers on Broadway.

The city of Millbrae also had a good-sized crowd of residents turn out for its "Fall Clean Up" and is planning another citywide clean-up in the spring.

Portola Valley hired students to clean its main thoroughfares and South San Francisco has been getting youngsters out once a month to clean target areas.

Weaver seems most proud of the "Mountain Revenge" that nearly 400 citizens waged on San Bruno Mountain last summer. In three days, they picked up more than 200 cubic yards of trash.

Weaver said the mountain has remained much cleaner since then, due to heavier security patrols and a new gate at the entrance to Radio Road.

Three weeks ago, Half Moon Bay High School students declared war on a five-mile stretch of their beaches. They picked up two big truckloads of debris and earned about $900 to boot.

The money was donated by sponsors from the community and will be used on the youngsters' athletics programs. They may hold another beach clean-up in February.

Weaver has another plan in mind for using the county's portion of the funds. In the spring, he hopes to garner volunteers to clean the entire Bayfront in San Mateo County.

He encourages individuals who want to help to call him at the county's division of parks and recreation (364-5600, ext. 2486).

He's also interested in hearing from persons who have suggestions for a county litter logo. He said one possibility would be to have a litter logo contest among school children.

Weaver isn't all alone is his crusade. Lorraine Lew was hired recently as the county's litter enforcement officer. Paid with state funds, she is developing a county-wide litter ordinance 11 cities will be asked to adopt.

Weaver said it is intended to be a workable, enforceable law with a realistic fine of $35 for first offenders. Violators also will have option of working off the fine by cleaning up portions of the county.

Another of Ms. Lew's responsibilities is to keep an eye on areas that accumulate litter.

In addition, Weaver receives lots of support from members of the advisory committee on litter that reports to the county's Regional Planning Commission.

They are scheduled to take a bus tour of recycling areas, disposal areas and chronic litter areas Dec. 8. (Members of the public are invited to ride along.)

Of course, Weaver will be riding along, picking their brains for new strategies in winning the war against litter.

Organization aiding seniors faces prospect of extinction

By TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

Paying the rent or getting enough to eat isn't the biggest worry for many elderly persons; instead, they live in fear that they will be shunted off to nursing homes or hospitals as soon as they aren't able to care for themselves. For three years, a San Mateo County organization called the In-Home Care System has forestalled this fate for seniors by providing them with up-to-date information and counseling about support services that can help them remain in their homes.

Now, much to the surprise and dismay of the organization's founders, the In-Home Care System is facing extinction.

"We know that persons in familiar surroundings, with their own plants and pets and furniture, are better off physically and psychologically. They stay healthier longer," said Lynette Harris, director of the Burlingame-based non-profit organization.

Johanne Foster, case manager for In-Home Care, pointed out that the service is vital in San Mateo County, where the shortage of nursing home beds means that many of the county's elderly must be placed in homes outside the county — some as far away as Gilroy.

"I can't believe we're about to go under. We're the stopgap for preventing the need for skilled nursing care. With our help, people can remain in their own homes twice as long at half the cost," she noted.

Founded by a group of doctors' wives, hospital workers and Red Cross volunteers who saw the need for support services for the elderly in this county, the In-Home Care System has been operating with funding from private foundations since January 1977.

The bad news came Nov. 20, when a major foundation announced it will not fund the In-Home Care System in 1980.

Ms. Harris said the organization was counting on those funds to tide it through the next 10 months. The previous grants run out Dec. 31 and, even with scrimping, she believes it will be impossible to remain open longer than the early part of next year unless additional funding comes through.

Compared to some services, the In-Home Care System's financial requirements aren't steep. Because so many volunteers assist, it operates on $70,000 per year. That sum pays Ms. Harris and Ms. Foster, each of whom has a master's degree, a secretary, and office expenses.

Located at 1870 El Camino Real, Suite 101, in Burlingame, the organization provides in-depth telephone counseling to about 100 seniors each month, telling them how to arrange for assistance with housekeeping, shopping, laundry, personal hygiene, transportation and home-delivered meals.

Seniors with failing health or disabilities can learn where to go for medical care or how to find trained personnel who will attend them in their homes and even stay overnight.

Those who live alone can be put in touch with volunteer visiting and telephone services that will check with them on a regular basis.

The In-Home Care System also helps seniors establish contacts for social activities, get assistance in filling out health insurance and Medicare forms, deal with stress and grief, and find the proper care facility when home care isn't feasible anymore.

In addition, it enables persons caring for the elderly to take time off by arranging for temporary assistance — called "respite care."

Further information about all of these services is available for free by dialing the In-Home Care System at 692-0827 or 692-0555.

However, the organization's employees found that telephone counseling isn't enough for some elderly citizens who don't have the strength or initiative to arrange for care for themselves.

As an alternative, they have begun a "case management" service last April under which, Ms. Foster explained, "We do it for them."

For a fee of $20 per hour and an average total charge of $40, she will go to the senior's home, assess his or her needs, draw up a proposal for meeting those needs and contact the organizations that can fulfill them.

Josepha Garnaud is one client who recently took advantage of the plan. The 80-year-old woman, who lives in Burlingame, received counseling and now is benefitting from regular visits by the Friendly Visiting Service.

She soon hopes to be taking advantage of San Mateo County Transit District's RediWheels program, which provides door-to-door transportation for the handicapped.

The San Mateo County branch of the American Cancer Society recently donated $5,000 to the In-Home Care System to provide the case management service for free to financially-strapped cancer patients during 1980.

That sum alone isn't enough to keep the organization's doors open.

If In-Home Care must fold, Ms. Foster said, "We'll have to work out some other arrangement with the American Cancer Society."

Seniors who phone in and those who sign up for case management all benefit from the women's expertise about the types of support services available.

Although most of them aren't free, Ms. Harris said, "Sometimes we save seniors money by talking them out of what they don't really have to have."

For example, she noted that most seniors requesting information about hiring registered nurses don't realize that this type of care costs $45 or more per visit.

Other alternatives are home health aides, who have some nursing skills and charge about $25 per hour; and homemaker aides who perform chores and run errands for $4 to $7.50 per hour.

Ms. Foster is trained in what Ms. Harris called the "crazy restrictions" of Medicare and, whenever possible, helps the elderly save additional dollars by qualifying for Medicare reimbursements.

That doesn't happen enough to suit them.

"I know one woman who is just above the Medicare (financial) cut-off point and she has been in Peninsula Hospital six times this year," Ms. Foster said. "All she needs is help three or four hours a day but Medicare won't pay for it. I know she's going to wind up in the hospital again."

The two women have long-range goals of reshaping state and federal laws to allow more seniors to live out their lives in their own homes.

For the time being, though, their concern is to continue putting the elderly in touch with the many in-home services that are available.

"We have a lot of support in the community. People tell us, 'You're not letting it be known how dire your circumstances are.' Well, now we want to broadcast the word: 'We welcome donations. They're tax-deductible.'" Ms. Harris said.

"We have done so much good. I would not want us to die — not a quiet death, anyway."

Controversial grading policy is rescinded

A controversial new grading policy adopted by the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees three weeks ago was rescinded by the board at a special meeting Monday night after many teachers, students and parents had protested it.

The district grading system will revert to quarterly grade reports, as it had been before the recent nine-week strike by the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481 against the district, which resulted in temporary 17-day grading periods for the duration of the strike.

But the board decided Nov. 13, a week after the strike was settled and the teachers, paraprofessionals and office personnel had gone back to work, to keep the 17-day grading periods at least through the rest of this semester, in an effort to keep parents current on student progress in the strike-interrupted academic program.

The grading policy was rescinded in time to prevent grades for the second cycle, ending this Thursday, from being sent out or put in students' records.

Parents and students had complained to the board Nov. 26 that the 17-day grading periods put a time-consuming burden and unfair pressure on teachers and students.

"I think the main advantage of the policy was the possibility of earlier contact with parents and in a time of transition (from the strike) everyone knew where they stood," Trustee Ruth Boudinot said, but added, "We've created a monster."

The 17-day system, the trustees explained, had been implemented to keep students and parents abreast of academic progress during the confusion of the strike, during which many classes were led by substitute teachers.

The district administration had recommended scrapping the 17-day system Nov. 13, but the board on its own decided to continue it, despite Superintendent Floyd Gonella's warnings that the district data processing system would be overtaxed by such frequent grade reporting.

Gonella told the board Monday night that a program would be developed to provide progress reports to parents of students who may be failing a class. The board turned down a proposal by Trustee Jane Powell that all students, not just those who are failing, receive progress reports.

Several students complained of the pressures put on teachers to issue grades every 17 days. Karol Fredricks, student representative to the board, said, "I thought it was a good idea because it would get kids to go to class, but teachers got the wrong idea and are giving tons of tests just to get grades out."

Leonard Martin, a teacher, asked the board why the community hadn't been asked for input before the 17-day plan was adopted.

"We acted in the best interest of those vitally concerned," Trustee John Sloane replied. "I don't think we'd have done differently if six teachers had jumped up and said it was too much work. We were just not in the mood."

Much of the discussion Monday was in reaction to a remark last week by Westmoor High science teacher Stuart Mepham comparing the trustees to turkeys.

"I've talked to a number of teachers, none of whom referred to the board as turkeys, which certainly doesn't help in a situation like this, and I'm not against changing the policy, providing students and parents still be made aware of students' progress," Mrs. Powell said.

Woman is convicted in killing

Ameenah Rasual, currently serving a prison term for first degree murder, has been convicted of murdering her husband in 1974.

Ms. Rasual was charged in the Daly City killing of her husband, Gilbert Gaines, following her arrest in San Francisco on charges of killing a friend. She ws convicted of killing Litho McDowell earlier this year.

The jury returned the guilty verdict late Friday to San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan, who set Dec. 11 for sentencing.

District Attorney Keither Sorenson said his office is studying the new sentencing laws to determine the proper prison term to request.

Under new laws, convicted murderers are sentenced to 25 years to life, life in prison without parole or given the death penalty.

Because the death penalty was held to be unconstitutional at the time of the 1974 killings, Ms. Rasual most likely will face further time in prison.

She currently is serving a 27-year term for the McDowell murder.

Merchants dislike telephone split

BY TERRY DAVENPORT
Post Staff Writer

Pacific Telephone Co. representatives told about 75 members of the Daly City Mission Merchants Association Thursday that they would be getting a bargain when the San Mateo County telephone book is split into three volumes next spring.

But the merchants hooted down everything the telephone officials said and Daly City Councilman James Tucker announced that a group of merchants and residents are contemplating legal action against the phone company.

Under the plan, San Mateo County will have three telephone directories that all contain the same white pages but have Yellow Pages covering only a portion of the county. The southernmost volume will cover Redwood City, Menlo Park and Palo Alto.

Kurt Teubner, manager of Pacific Telephone's Daly City office, tried to appease the angry group by announcing that his company has agreed to give Daly City merchants free listings in the Yellow Pages in the San Francisco book and the San Mateo — North County volume.

In addition, Teubner said Daly City businesses will have to pay just $1.50 per month more for a listing in the central San Mateo County book or for one in the Redwood City-Palo Alto directory.

Peter Markovich, director of the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce, objected that a business which paid $1,389 for a quarter-page ad in the San Mateo County directory's Yellow Pages will have to pay $3,281.40 to have the same ad in the three books covering the county next year.

He accused the phone company of failing to give the public proper notification of the decision to split up the county's directory and warned, "We've got people that are really upset about this."

Paul Wiltsee, Pacific Telephone's directory staff manager, said a copy of his company's application for the change went to every city manager in the county, was explained on a bill insert that every customer received and was further publicized in legal announcements in newspapers.

"We can't force the newspapers to give us publicity," he noted.

Wiltsee said Pacific Telephone has only increased its rates 1.8 percent per year since 1970, saying, "Our rates are not commensurate with our costs."

At this point, Tucker announced that a group of merchants and residents had asked him to report that they may try to get an injunction to prevent the phone company for splitting up the directory.

Tucker said he did not represent the group and was making the announcement as a citizen rather than as a councilman. He declined to reveal which individuals are contemplating the legal action.

His brow furled, Wiltsee insisted that some people think the change is "wonderful" and read comments from several small merchants lauding the lower rates they will have to pay for advertising in one book.

"How come they're so happy and I'm not?" demanded Don Bevilacqua, a service station owner.

The longest tirade came from Neal Rohde, a visiting San Bruno merchant who has been organizing opposition to the phone company's plan for five weeks.

Instead of paying $1,300 for Yellow Pages ads, Rohde said he will have to pay $3,100 next year. He called Pacific Telephone's marketing surveys "a bunch of bull----" and charged the company with trying to force businesses to make up for the $235 million it overcharged customers and now has to pay back.

"They say it's going to cost $50,000 to break the book into two books. What is it going to cost to break it into three?" he asked.

Wiltsee said Pacific Telephone now earns $7.5 million in revenues for its San Mateo County and Palo Alto Yellow Pages, and expects to show a net gain of just $154,000 after paying $200,000 in expenses.

"Why would you go to all that trouble if you only get $154,000?" asked George Smith of the Mission Bell Motel.

Wiltsee said he thought he could best answer that question by quoting a man who told him, "I went through 16 pages of plumbers to find one near my house."

People in the audience also wanted to know:

Why Pacific Telephone surveyed only residents and not business owners when it did its marketing studies

Why the company figures that only 20 percent of merchants will advertise in more than one book

Why San Mateo County's county seat, Redwood City, has been lumped together with a city in another county

Why the company couldn't split San Mateo County's book into two volumes — one containing White Pages and the other containing Yellow Pages — just as it is doing in San Francisco

The questions came so fast that Wiltsee didn't have enough time to answer all ofGCem.

However, he stressed, whenever he could break into the discussion, that Pacific Telephone has the best interests of its customers at heart and said a survey of 639 advertisers in the North County showed that 39 percent would have lower rates next year.

Zack Zachariah, president of the Mission Merchants, summed up the two-hour discussion by noting that it appeared the consensus of the group was that there isn't much that can be done to prevent the phone book from being divided into three parts.

"However, if that be the case, let's hope Pacific Telephone is going to be sensitive enough...that all those who currently advertise in the Yellow Pages be allowed not to have their costs increased for the same area — at least for a year," he said.

EXPLAINING

Paul Wiltsee, Pacific Telephone's directory staff manager, couldn't say anything to the Daly City Mission Merchants to quell their wrath over the company's plans to split the San Mateo County telephone directory into three parts. Even the map he brought along drew criticism, when merchants noticed that Daly City was left out of the county and Millbrae was erroneously included in the North County directory area.

The Regent

By ROBIN MOELLER
Serramonte High School

Serramonte is showing its Christmas spirit early this year by selling candy canes.

The CSF (California Scholarship Federation) and Junior State clubs of Serramonte are sponsoring the candy cane sale. Profits are going to be used for the benefit of the club members.

CSF is a club designed for college-bound students. Membership in the club is divided into semesters. To become a member, a student must get high grades in certain subjects during the previous semester. There also is 75 cents dues.

The CSF club usually takes at least a couple trips a semester to various colleges, giving students a chance to decide where they would like to go after high school.

The money CSF makes goes into scholarships for the clubs graduating seniors.

The Junior States Club of Serramonte is a branch of a larger organization, comprising of high school students throughout California. Junior State will hold its annual convention in the spring at Sacramento.

Another club at Serramonte which just started up again this year is the Model United Nations club.

This club also represents students from a number of high schools and will hold a convention in Berkeley in February.

In the Model United Nations each high school is given a different country and at the convention the represented countries proceed to debate in a manner similar to the real United Nations.

The club gives students a chance to learn a bit about how government works.

The club still is open to new members. Gina Hom is president of the club, Alex Yee is treasurer and Mr. Goldberg is the club advisor.

The seniors at Serramonte will have to take a test tomorrow which is required for their graduation.

Open house will be Dec. 6. It will be similar to last year's, with the teachers outside their classrooms. The Industrial Arts and a couple other departments are not going to have their open house until the spring when they can set up displays.

The yearbook club at Serramonte is going to try to get the yearbook out this year, despite all the difficulties. They have proposed that anyone who wants to buy a yearbook will have to pay an initial price of $10, and that the final cost will be determined by the number of books sold. Also, they say each class will receive one spirit point for each class member that buys a yearbook.

A speaker representing the University of California came to Serramonte Nov. 29. Bob Laird talked to college-bound seniors about the universities, in the career center.

The sophomore Christmas dance at Serramonte has been cancelled due to lack of supervision, surveys and other circumstances. They are, however, planning to hold a dance at a later date.

Serramonte is planning on opening the Student Store this year. The Executive Board will be running the store. They will start off by selling candy-candy bars, gum and the like.

Serramonte's freshman class officers will be voted on soon. Petitions for candidates were to be turned in by Dec. 4.

Christmas vacation for the Jefferson Union High School District officially starts Dec. 21 and extends to Jan. 7. This year the high school district's vacation doesn't coincide with the Jefferson Union Elementary School District's which begins Dec. 14.

The meeting is open to the public and admission to the review is free.

The speaker also will be the guest of honor at a no-host luncheon at The Bunker restaurant on the Cypress Hills Golf course. Reservations for the luncheon will be accepted tomorrow morning.

Persons seeking clever ideas for stocking stuffers are encouraged to look at the original book marks to be sold at the conclusion of tomorrow's meeting.

Mrs. Emmett Tierney has designed and hand-crafted the bookmarks, which are attractive enough to double as tree decorations. The proceeds from the sale benefit the library.

"DECK THE Halls" — the holiday boutique being sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women — will feature a mouthwatering array of Christmas sweets suitable for use during entertaining or attractive enough for holiday giving.

Shoppers are invited to browse through the selection of handmade gift items and homemade goodies Saturday and Sunday following each of the Masses.

Mrs. Eileen Barsi and Mrs. Bettyann Hinchman are chairwomen of the sale and Mrs. Joanne Robinson is handling publicity.

DALY CITY'S ESTHER AVIVA

She'll perform with the Paul Scardina Dance Company of San Francisco.

Dance company to appear for one night only Dec. 8

The Paul Scardina Dance Company of San Francisco will appear at the Palace of Fine Arts one night only, Dec. 8, at 8:30 p.m.

This dance-theater ensemble will premiere portions of its dance fantasy "The Book of Imaginary Beings," inspired by Jorge Luis Borges's anthology of mythical creatures that have long symbolized the desires and fears of mankind.

In these excerpts, a magical Griffon, the three-headed dog Cerberus, the A Bao A Qu (a guardian spirit), and playful Gnomes rise up in the path of a modern-day hero as he journeys toward enlightenment.

Paul Scardina, company artistic director, conceived and choreographed this highly theatrical dance, and has collaborated with sculptor/maskmaker Jeff Key and new-music composer Toby Mountain.

The nine-member company will also perform "Walkin' the Floor," an upbeat charmer with a 1940s flair to a Bing Crosby vocal; a deft and daffy dance called "Unhinged!" that takes off on American role-playing (San Francisco premiere); and Scardina signature pieces such as the lyrical "Timekeepers," the five-woman character study "Portraits," and the dazzlingly abstract "Go."

General admission is $5, students $4, seniors and children $2, with PAS vouchers accepted at a $2.50 discount. Advance tickets may be purchased at all Macy's and Emporium outlets, or by mail from The Paul Scardina Dance Co., 390 Corbett Ave., San Francisco 94114.

Daughter's bazaar

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of the America, will hold its annual Christmas Bazaar Dec. 8-9, after all the masses at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Hall, 80 Wellington Ave., Daly City.

On display will be handmade and handcrafted items by members of its Mission Circle who have been working on the lovely articles since January of this year.

A variety of gift items, baked goods and plants will also be available. Regent, Rosario Nepomuceno, invites the public to browse among the tables and plan to buy some of their Christmas presents at the bazaar.

Proceeds of the bazaar will go to the Court's multiple charities.

Sabbath services

Sabbath services will be observed in the Sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Dec. 7 at 8:30 p.m.

The Friday evening service will be conducted by Rabbi Malcolm Cohen, assisted by Cantor Salo Blumenthal, who will chant the liturgy, accompanied by Richard Altman, organist.

Also participating will be members of the Congregation by offering responsive readings and prayers.

At the conclusion of services, a social hour will follow hosted by the Temple Sisterhood.

Dancers at Serramonte

The Betty May Dancers will perform at Serramonte Shopping Center Dec. 9 at noon.

Performaning in the "Happy Holiday Review," they will bring you back to those beautiful, nostalgic memories of yesteryear where the natural, cultural, delightful routines were caressed by the sweetness and grace of youth and "old-fashioned" was in vogue.

Bringing the 'rah-rah' spirit back to Jeff

By Rosie Tejada, Bernard Thomas and Karen Wong

HOMECOMING HITS JEFFERSON

Homecoming. It brings a "rah-rah" spirit to the students celebrating it. Jefferson has its homecoming Nov. 16 and Jefferson was "rah-rah."

Blue and yellow toilet paper draped the school. Signs saying "He's here! He's there! Big, Bad Daddy Calvin is everywhere!" could be seen at various areas on the campus. Flowergrams circulated throughout the school.

It wasn't a particularly "perfect" day to celebrate anything. The sky was grey, it was cold, and there was a 20 percent chance of rain.

Yet an impressive multitude of students flooded the gym for the rally. The Pep Staff sparkled in their suits and routines. Confetti crowned heads and clamor filled the gym as each class fought a vocal tug-of-war for that coveted Spirit Trophy.

This battle was won by the class of 1981. Suddenly men in blue and gold jerseys charged onto the floor. The roar went up several decibels and the cheerleaders up in the air. "Big Blue" cheered in their husky voices and did a drill routine that drove the crowd wild.

Jefferson students cluttered Mission Street in anticipation of the Homecoming Parade.

Leading the floats was a limousine in which sat the grand marshal, former Jefferson varsity football head coach and last year's co-coach of the year, Jack Burgett.

Eyecatching were the floats entered by the junior class (awarded trophy for most decorative) and the Filipino Club (awarded most original). The train paraded around the Jefferson track, and the El Camino Colts watched the parade go by as they went on to lose a slippery decision, 13-6.

"We are No. 1!" yelled Big Blue, waving index fingers in the air. Serramonte lost to HMB. Complete euphoria.

Dr. Midnight provided the disco sounds at the dance that evening, and Queen Lori Ann Woods found her court: senior Lorraine Wilson, junior Cynthia Barkley, sophomore Lenora Rivera and freshman Gloria Alhambra.

Homecoming at Jefferson meant dollars for the senior class, a rally, a parade, a championship, and a reason for being "rah-rah."

— R.T.

TRIBUTE OF CHAMPIONSHIP TEAMS

"One, two, three! What's the word?!!? We are number one!"

Jefferson pep girls cheered jubilantly to open a brief rally Nov. 21 in tribute of Jefferson's two championship teams for the 1979 fall sports season.

Coach Ed Johnson introduced the NPL championship girls' varsity tennis team and listed each player's individual accomplishments. Led by CCS qualifier Ame Cruz, the ladies gave Jefferson its first championship in girls' tennis in the sport's two-year existence in the NPL.

Upon the exit of the lady champs came the entrance of the varsity football team, whose North Peninsula League championship quenched a 55-year-long Jefferson thirst.

The players paraded onto the floor proudly displaying white T shirts, gifts from the student body, with emblems of laurels on the left breasts and words which read: "CIF Central Coast Section Football Championship."

Cheers and confetti streamed the gym as rookie head coach Luis Sanchez and assistant coaches Jack McGuire and Jeff Jones took over.

"I would like to thank the student body for supporting us during the season by coming out to all the games," said Sanchez, the Terra Nova graduate who took over the Indians during the teachers' strike.

He then announced the names of the Indians who achieved All-League status for the 1979 season. Eleven players made all-league and Richard Rodgers was designated the league's player of the year. Those making All-League were (first team) QB/DB Richard Rodgers, RB Sam Smith, LB Charlie Banfield, OT Corey Franklin, DT Jaime Jackson, (second team) DB Jose Nuila, RB Doug Cheatum, (honorable mention) WR Manny Solis, C Rick Huertas, DB Thaddeus Gill and LB Benji Santiago.

— R.T.

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Richard Rodgers is November's student of the month. Selected by Jefferson's student government, he fit the criteria for outstanding achievemnt.

Rodgers, a senior QB/DB, led Jeff's varsity football team spiritually and physically to its first championship in 55 years. He was named to All NPL first team and was the first recipient of the NPL player of the year award.

Football, no doubt, is one of his main interests, having played on teams since sixth grade. Three of his four high school football years were spent on the varsity squad, and he also spent those three years as an all-leaguer as well as being last year's back of the year. He plans to play college ball but is undecided for which college to play. As far as the NFL goes, "I have a 50-50 chance."

Basketball is another interest of his. Playing on Jefferson basketball teams since his freshman year, Rodgers maintained all-league status for the past two seasons.

ATHLETE HONORED

Jefferson High's Richard Rodgers.

Track is yet another sport in which he participates, having run for Jefferson in his freshman and junior years.

CLUBS

Clubs were active during the strike, and now more are forming.

During the strike, members of the Horse Club sold candy and enjoyed horseback riding.

The International Club, not very active in the past, now is functioning. A few weeks ago they watched a movie, "A Little Romance." They also are planning fund-raisers to help ease the cost of their after-school activities (i.e., ice-skating and bowling). Several members of this club put together a float for the homecoming parade.

Also participating in the homecoming parade were the Latin Heritage Club, Student Government and the Filipino Club, whose float won the trophy for most original.

The flowergram sale, which was sponsored by the Filipino Club for Homecoming Day, also was a success.

CSF (the California Scholarship Federation) sold candy and finalized its list of members for the fall semester of the 1979-1980 school year:

Seniors: Gwendolyn Adams, Alyle Camacho, Villamor Corpuz, Madeline Diaz, Noel Enriquez, Maryanne Paras, Alvin Rozal, Shirley Soberone, Rizal Villareal, Carol DeMarlo and ary Bui.

Juniors: Ruby Chow, Kim Lo, Laura Evans, Richard Huertes, Luana Jeffries, Eric King, Joel Martinez, Esther Sam, Imma Sumortin, Rosie Tejada, Bernard Thomas and Karen Wong.

LATEST EDITION

Richard Lalami is one of four new teachers at Jefferson. Actually, the latest edition to the Math Department taught at Jeff for three years before moving to Terra Nova, where he spent five years.

"I like it here at Jeff. I like the kids, I like the atmosphere . . . it's different," he says.

Photography and caligraphy are among Lalami's hobbies. And so is coaching. He coached three years of varsity football at Jefferson and one year at Terra Nova. He coaches a women's rugby team and has been coaching football at the College of San Mateo for the past five years, two years as offensice line coach and three as defensive line coach.

"I like coaching college football. It's a higher level of football. There's a higher motivation, working with the best athletes in the county.

"As far as athletics go, I'm committed to excellence. That's how I coach. And I apply that to teaching. Teaching is coaching. Coaching is teaching."

— R.T.

THREE RETURN

Gary Leahy, Jeannine Hodge and Dave Smith are back at Jefferson after a leave of absence.

Leahy, head of the Social Studies Department, traveled to Europe and the Mideast. He says he believes "You can read all the books in the world but will never get the feel of a country without going there."

Jeannine Hodge, social studies and reading teacher, spent her sabbatical as mayor of Brisbane.

Dave Smith, head of Jefferson's reading complex program, traveled around the country in his camper.

SHIFTS MADE

Switches have been made within the faculty and adminstration.

Bianca Caserza, formerly a librarian here, now is now teaching Spanish. Al Sinor, a science teacher for many years, is the attendance supervisor, taking the place of Frank Brady. Brady, in turn, is the guidance counselor, replacing Elizabeth Hall, who moved up to principal. Margaret Cormier, a teacher, now is counselor for part of the class of 1983.

Child-tending services

Temporary Tot Tending, Inc., the first temporary child care facility in a northern Bay Area shopping center, is open at the Serramonte Shopping Center.

Staffed by three fully credentialed elementary school teachers, Temporary Tot Tending provides creative learning activities for children while parents shop.

The service is located at 50 Serramonte Mall, opposite Epplers Bakery. Houra correspond to the center's hours.

Its owners and operators — Sherry Alcalde, Ida Dubois and Judy Robinson — describe Temporary Tot Tending as "the ideal service for the harassed parent."

"We are all mothers who have experienced shopping with our own children," they explain. "We saw a need to provide a facility where parents can leave their children while shopping, getting their hair done, taking care of business appointments, or just enjoying a relaxing lunch or dinner."

Temporary Tot Tending offers that opportunity. For $2 for the first hour and $1.50 for each additional hour, parents can attend to their chores, knowing their children are supervised. The service is designed for the 2- to 8-year-old age bracket, and there are family rates.

The facility, designed in a green-and-yellow decor, has such features as a gingerbread playhouse, a toy area, manipulative games.

Here's one reason not to give personal advice

Le Pacini

Bob Butticci is one reason why I rarely give advice to anyone as to how they should lead their lives.

Butticci is currently president and co-founder (with William Bethel) of The Money Lenders, an investment firm, and a partner in Butticci and Bethel Real Estate Investments. He is a successful man.

Twenty-seven years ago, Bob Butticci was one of my best friends, and also one of the best prep athletes in San Francisco.

In retrospect, Butticci is a rather significant figure in the history of San Francisco's parochial school athletic development. When Bob and I graduated from junior high we were both offered scholarships to attend Sacred Heart, a school which at that time had no reputation athletically, and which was trying to build in that direction by handing out free rides to the likes of Butticci and me.

I opted to go to Mission High, which was working on a record streak of five straight city baseball championships. I told Butticci that he was crazy to go to Sacred Heart, which didn't have girls in classes and never won anything, but he went against my good advice.

For the next three years, with Pacini playing first base for Mission and Butticci catching for Sacred Heeart, they won three straight championships while Mission kept coming in second.

Butticci caught Willie Franco, a legendary high school hurler (the best I've ever seen) who hurt his arm in his senior year and was never quite the same, although he did sign with the Yankees and had a fairly successful minor league career.

Bob also caught Jim Gentile, who was a pitcher-first baseman in those days and who later, of course, had a very successful big league career as a first baseman with Baltimore on the first of their great teams.

Bob made All-City in a high school league which was then possibly the toughest in Northern California. He also was a standout fullback (the newspapers dubbed him "Burly Bob") for a struggling Sacred Heart football program which didn't gain power until the early 1960s.

When Bob graduated there was talk of scholarships (he also was a top student) from Stanford and Santa Clara, and a few others. Bob was thinking seriously of becoming a high school coach. There also was interest from the pros, most prominently, the Dodgers.

But another thing about Butticci is that he was as broke as I was because our families weren't rich and because we both held the philosophy that one shouldn't work too hard in one's teens because it was more fun to hang around the playground after school and on weekends and play games and flirt with whatever girls also liked to hang around.

How broke was broke? Butticci and I used to ask girls if they were going to the Avenue (local movie house) that weekend, and if they said they were, we'd say, good, we'll meet you in the balcony. And the Avenue was only 50 cents in those days.

At some point late in his senior year, I guess it was, Butticci must have gotten tired of hanging around because a few days after he graduated he donned a tweed suit, put on a necktie (the first I had ever seen him wear), and went to work for a prominent West Coast investment brokerage firm. He said he was tired of being broke; that he'd rather be rich.

Naturally, I, along with others, told him he was crazy not to take the opportunity to further his formal education, and/or accept a modest bonus (this was in the days when BIG bonus money was reserved only for the Paul Pettits and Johnny Antonellis and Ed Cereghinos) to play pro ball. But Butticci believed he would rather compete with the moguls of Montgomery Street than with college finals or curve balls in the lower minors.

After a year, Butticci's business career was interrupted by a two-year stint in the Army, where he had an illustrious baseball career as captain of the Ft. Lewis team in Washington, which was one of the powerhouses of service baseball.

But even that one last taste of baseball glory, in which he found he could compete which some already established pros, failed to sway Butticci from his business career. He returned to his civilian job and went about proving that he had made, if not THE right decision, a right decision.

While he was working, Butticci was finally going to college, taking evening courses in accounting, investments and real estate at the University of California.

He eventually became a principal in the investment firm he had joined right after high school. He entered the real estate business and became a broker in 1970, being associated with one of the most prominent realty firms in California, specializing in investment properties. Later, he became president of Ygnacio Investments, and is now, as mentioned, president of The Money Lenders.

Meanwhile, Bob married beautiful Hazel from Mission High, had two gorgeous deaughters, Bev and Janine, and doesn't regret the decision he made 27 years ago to put the jock world behind him, except as a spectator. (He's an avid Raider fan.)

Is there a moral to this story? Sure.

The obvious one is, never listen to advice from Pacini.

The more subtle but most important one is, if you have ability you never have to worry about regrets because anything you do will be the right thing to do.

As Butticci said recently, "Hell, I've had a good life."

Miscellany: It looks like I finally hit one right. In the Oct. 3 column I wrote, "When the experts, or fans, talk about MVP candidates, nobody ever seems to mention the Angels' Don Baylor . . ." And Baylor, of course, has been named the American League's MVP.

I don't know about you or the 49er coaching staff, but I'm rooting for them to lose for the rest of the season so that they can get that top draft pick.

If a couple of more wins would put a little extra money in their traveling bags, I'd be all for one or two more wins, but it won't and I'm not.

There are those who would argue — particularly anybody representing the league (there must at times, in such situations, be temptations to "throw" such games) — that the players play for pride, not draft picks.

And coach Bill Walsh, I'm sure, would argue that it would be of greater benefit to the 49ers, as a positive psychological carryover, for them to close out the season winning than to close out losing but getting that top pick.

I would agree with that, except that, realistically, how many of the current 49ers will be on next year's roster to reap that psychologiacal benefit?

As of the last set of NFL statisticcs we saw, Paul Hofer had the best average per run (6.3) of the top 41 rushing yard grossers in the league.

Rushing seasons of 1,000 yards for running backs in the NFL should no longer be considered as the standard for running greatness. If they haven't been cheapened by the extended season, they have certainly been diminished.

Beattie Feathers, the first 1,000-yard rusher in NFL history, did it for the Bears in 1934 when there was a 13-game season. Incidentally, it was no fluke. Beattie carried the ball only 101 times for 1,004 yrards, averaging 9.9 yards per carry.

When Steve Van Buren of the Eagles did it in 1947, it was during a 12-game schedule. When 49er Joe Perry had 'em back-to-back in 1953-54, it also was in 12 games. Jimmy Brown did it for the Browns numerous times in 12-game seasons.

It seems to me that a more reasonable standard for extreme running excellence in the NFL could be more in the 1,300-yard range.

Jeff survives Vikings' rally

By GREG QUIGLEY

In a game billed as one of the best pre-season prep basketball contests in the County, Mills High almost failed to keep its side of the bargain.

As it turned out, a tremendous Viking comeback attempt fell short in a 72-69 loss at the hands of an aggressive Jefferson squad.

Jeff bolted to a 25-9 first period lead on the shooting of forward Ernie DuPree and the rebounding of Ken Mackey. An attacking zone defense caused many Mills turnovers and uncharacteristic mistakes.

"We came out tentative," said Viking Coach Bill Smith. "Their quickness hurt using the first half. In the second half, we tried to play our game, and when we settled down, we played with poise."

If forward Jim Ryan hadn't gone to work for the Vikes in the second quarter, they could have gone to locker room at the half and stayed there. Ryan scored 15 of Mills' 19 points, including nine of 10 from the line. His scoring, coupled with a good ball-hawking defense, closed the gap to 37-31 at the half.

The Indians maintained a slim advantage in the third and early fourth quarters. Outside shooting was the Jeff strength during this stretch, led by DuPree and Freddie Burks (who was injured much of last year).

Mills took its first lead with 7:00 to go in the game, due mainly to the inside work of 6-6 junior center Glenn Radel.

A pair of Jay Williams free throws with 3:32 remaining gave the Indians the lead for good, but the game was far from over.

Jim McCann followed in a missed Dave Delbon free-throw with 0:39, bringing the Vikes to within one at 70-69. McCann had a chance to put Mills in front, but missed the front end of a one-and-one with 0:17 left on the clock.

Jeff brought the ball upcourt in a long-passing offense. Finally, Ryan fouled Burks with 0:08 left, putting Burks at the line.

Burks calmly dropped both shots, icing the game for the Indians, making the score 72-69, and upsetting Mills, 14th-ranked in the CCS pre-season poll.

Jeff is missing the services of Richard Rodgers, who suffered a knee injury in last week's CCS football playoff.

"Considering the problem with the point guard position, we did well," said Jeff Coach Bud Bresnahan. "Our quickness was a factor in the first half, but they wore us down in the third and fourth quarters. Mills is a very poised club, but foul trouble hurt them tonight."

El Camino loses to Hillsdale

By RICK EYMER

Hillsdale High scrapped out a 56-54 non-league basketball victory over host El Camino Friday in the season opener for both teams on the strength of 6-10 center Nick Vanos' 22 points and 14 rebounds.

When Jerry Glessing scored off a long drive with 1:27 left in the first quarter to give the Knights a 12-10 lead, Hillsdale never again lost the lead, although the Colts fought back to tie the game at 50-all with 2:08 remaining to play when Rob Canepa made one of two free throw tries.

El Camino started strong, grabbing the first eight points before the Knights were able to get on the scoreboard.

Supporting Vanos, senior forward Troy Lewis grabbed 15 rebounds, and it was his offensive board and lay-in that got Hillsdale going.

Mike Bigham led the Colt attack with 11 points, most coming in the final quarter over Vanos.

Hillsdale built up leads of six and seven points but could never put away a smaller, scrappy Colt team. With the Knights committing 28 turnovers, El Camino kept jumping back into the game. Kevin Latz and Carl Rhodes came off the bench to sink several key outside jumpers to keep the Colts within striking distance all the way.

But it was the presence of Vanos that made the difference. Against El Camino, Vanos was able to reach over people to grab offensive rebounds and put in easy baskets. Lewis took away a lot of pressure from Vanos, hitting the boards hard and coming up with some key plays.

"We knew we would have trouble with El Camino," said Knight Caoch Bill Wilkin. "They put the pressure on us, but it's a win, and I'll take it."

"I am very happy with the game," Colt mentor Rich Arias said. "The guys played hard."

The game wasn't fully decided until Chris Pavis sank both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation with six seconds to play to give the Knights a four-point lead.

Paul Fanfelle lent a deft hand to the Hillsdale charge, coming off the bench to inspire 10 straight Knight points in the first quarter, and then again in the final period on the strength of six assists and good ball-handling.

STANDING TALL

Hillsdale High's Nick Vanos (32) towers over El Camino's Mike Bigham — who himself stands 6-5 — in Friday's game. Vanos, 6-10, scored 22 points and pulled down 14 rebounds, pacing the Knights to a narrow win.

Dons breeze

Aragon High opened its 1979-80 basketball season with basically the same cast that made it Mid-Península League co-champion last year.

Oceana had a new look — Shark star (and only returning starter) Eric Claybon was missing from Friday night's opener. He was with his family in Sacramento.

The Dons put on an incredible press in the first quarter to force the Sharks into 11 first period turnovers. Aragon led 29-9 after one quarter and went on to win 87-59.

TN coasts past Falcons

Terra Nova High's basketball team really came out of the chute hard in its non-league opener Friday night at Crestmoor, winning 55-44.

The Tigers blew to a commanding 16-0 lead to open the game. The host Falcons scored four to finish the first period, but that advantage was more than Crestmoor could overcome.

Terra Nova's tremendous start and its overall height advantage over Crestmoor made the difference. The Tiger front line of 6-6 Rich Belli and 6-5 Joe Pedro played volleyball on the boards.

Belli topped all scorers with 25 tallies. Pedro contributed 15 for a total of 40 for the two veterans.

Dennis Davis topped Crestmoor with 16. Drek Horton added 11, and Gary Goff 13.

Scot, TN Girls win

Two of the better guards on the County girls' prep basketball scene, Roseanne Quinn from Capuchino High and Michelle Sanchez from Carlmont, opened non-league play in the area by leading their respective teams in a contest won by Carlmont, 48-34, Friday in Belmont.

Quinn scored 24 points, canning 14 of 28 from the floor on short jumpers, while Sanchez dazzled with penetration drives and follow shots off of rebounds for 27 points.

In another non-league contest, Terra Nova opened defense of its Central Coast Section title by dumping visiting Aragon 71-44.

Forward Nadine Hart sparked the Tigers with team-high totals in rebounds (12) and points (14). Lori Diaz, Terra Nova's new floor leader, had five assists and 5 steals while Dian Diean Manu led the Dons with 14 points.

Skyline cagers in upset

CUPERTINO — The longest win streak in community college basketball is at an end.

And Skyline's new coach Pete Pontacq has his first JC championship.

The Trojans upset two-time Division II state champion Merced, 67-60, Saturday night to capture the De Anza Festival Classic.

That ended a 27-game Blue Devil win streak dating back to last December (when they lost to Los Medanos, which was top-ranked overall in the state;. Merced had compiled a 54-1 record since the beginning of 1978, through two state tournaments.

The Blue Devils' toughest win last year was a triple overtime affair with Skyline in the same De Anza Classic.

This time Merced started off quickly, taking a 10-4 lead on the outside shooting of guard Rich Richardson. But Skyline went ahead, 17-16, with 11:27 to go in the half, as tourney MVP Dave Loop sank a baseline jumper.

With all-tourney guard Joe Belfrey doing the passing and center Roy Raymond (6-6) leading the scoring, Skyline pulled away to a 34-22 halftime advantage.

The closest Merced came in the second half was 50-44 with 8:07 left.

Lopp, a 6-7½ soph from Capuchino, was the defensive star of the tourney, holding returning state Division II player of the year Charles Pittman (6-8) to 12 points. Merced's 6-9 center Jerry Dennard got just eight points against the Trojan zone

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Take a look at the date in the upper corner of this paper, Dec. 5, and I know I'm already five days behind in my Christmas preparations.

I hope it means though, that you are five days ahead in your sewing, shopping, making, baking and wrapping.

While there are some Christmas goodies that can — and should — be baked this far ahead to allow for mellowing, there are others that need to be baked later. And that's what we might consider today.

Most of us have certain cookies that we bake every Christmas, they are a part of the season and over the years have become a tradition.

Along with the "oldies but goodies," give these brownies a try: combining coconut, chocolate and a light almond flavoring, they layer into an attractive and very tasty treat.

DARK AND LIGHT BROWNIES

2/3 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon double-action baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1/3 cup butter or shortening, melted
3/4 cup flaked coconut
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1½ squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

Mix the two-thirds cup flour with half teaspoon baking powder and fourth teaspoon salt. Gradually add the cup of sugar to the two well beaten eggs; beating thoroughly. Blend in the third cup butter. Add the flour mixture and mix well; add coconut.

Divide batter into two equal parts; add the half teaspoon almond extract to one part. Add the one and one-half squares melted chocolate to remaining batter, and spread evenly in a greased 8-inch square pan.

Drop almond-flavored batter by teaspoonfuls over chocolate batter in pan; then spread carefully to form a thin even layer.

Bake at 350-degrees for 30 to 35 minetes, or until lightly browned. Cool in pan on rack. Cut into bars or squares.

Makes about 20.

Looking through my "oldie and goodie" file, I rediscovered a cookie recipe that is so good, so easy to make, and makes such a generous amount that I just have to remind you good cooks to give it a try. These rich, crisp cookies sprinkled with a snowy topping of powdered sugar make an attractive Christmas gift.

POTATO CHIP COOKIES

1 pound margarine
1¼ cups sugar
2teaspoons vanilla
3½ cups flour
1½ cups crushed potato chips

Blend the one pound margarine, one and one-fourth cups sugar and two teaspoons vanilla. Cream very well. Next blend in the three and one-half cups flour and finally work in the one and one-half cups potato chips.

The dough will be very firm. Drop by rounded teaspoonsfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. (Remember to always check at the shortest baking time.)

Remove from sheet, sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Makes 8 dozen.

Nurse wins an historic labor ruling

A nurse at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, won a precedent-setting labor decision last Thursday that will require hospitals to increase salaries and pay back wages to foreign-born nurses who were not given credit for nursing experience outside the United States.

Norma Rupisan Watson, a Philippine-born nurse, filed a complaint in 1978 indicating she was hired at $7.25 an hour — a second-year level — rather than getting credit for eight years she worked at McCarthy Hospital in Manila.

Mrs. Watson, who is married to a local doctor, is assigned to the highly-skill, coronary care unit at the Daly City hospital.

The decision by labor arbitrator Sam Kagel will give Mrs. Watson and 2,800 foreign nurses in the San Francisco Bay Area increased salaries, back pay, higher ranks and longer vacations.

The foreign nurses, comprising 52 percent of the Bay Area nursing workforce, had been denied pay credit for their overseas experience, said Robert Goldstein, an attorney for the nurses.

"This means megabucks," Goldstein said. Some of the nurses will be entitled to as much as 15 years back wages, he added.

The ruling could effect other California hospitals with large foreign nurse workforces who have followed the same pay practices.

Mrs. Watson filed her complaint against the San Francisco Affiliated Hospitals, of which Mary's Help is a member.

Realtor discounts housing recession

Clark E. Wallace, president of the California Association of Realtors, has discounted suggestions that the present uncertainties affecting real estate loans may lead to another recession in housing, such as occurred in 1974-75.

Wallace reminded real estate analysts of important strengths in today's housing economy that did not exist five years ago.

"The realities of the market place will exert an important positive impact on real estate in California in the near term," Wallace said. "We feel that the consequences of the present uncertainties will be far less severe and much shorter in duration than those of 1974."

"The stock of available housing is much more restricted today," Wallace pointed out.

"Economic restraints such as the high costs of land, labor, and materials, combined with bureaucratic restraints, have made it almost impossible for the home building industry to provide enough housing. The demand for housing is much greather than the supply, and there appears to be no way to overcome this demand-supply gap in the near future."

"Further stimulating buying pressures," Wallace pointed out, "is an 'inflationary mentality' that has gripped the marketplace. This is a pronounced attitude of those who can afford to buy that there is no time like the present. In light of the average of 20 percent appreciation in real estate values in each of the last four years, the public recognizes that real estate is one of the few proven investment hedges against double-digit inflation.

"Of course, money is tight. But it is still available, and the outlook for housing loans is much more favorable. Some of the conditions existing today that did not exist five years ago include the new money market certificates, expansion of the secondary mortgage market, greater emphasis on home loans by major commercial bankers, new financing techniques such as variable rate mortgages, and the growth of self-financing and assumptions.

"Lastly, the current strong California economy represents a bright contrast to tha of 1974," Wallace said. "The present strength of the aerospace and defense industries in California is a positive economic force supporting a high level of employment in the state."

The 1974-75 housing recession lasted almost two years and was followed by a surge of consumer demand for housing, resulting in the steady appreciation of real property values that has continued up to the present.

New JESD trustees

Two new trustees were seated officially and new officers for the coming year elected by the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees at a special meeting Monday night.

The new trustees, Mrs. Joan Dennison and Mrs. Carol Didia, replace Mrs. Beverly K. Forrester and Alvin S. Schwarzbach, neither of whom ran for re-election in November.

Trustee Richard M. Parker was elected board president for the coming year, with Trustee Dorothy D. Adams elected vice president, Trustee James Cranna clerk and Mrs. Didia vice clerk.

Parker, now in the midst of his second four-year term on the board, was president in 1975. He took over from Mrs. Adams, who had been board president the past two years.

A reception followed the installation and elections, with no formal business being taken up.

The next regular board meeting will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 12 at the district office in Daly City.

Alternative Christmas emphasizing personal

By ARVILE FINACOM

Frederick Law Olmstead, the mid-19th century naturalist and designer of New York City's Central Park, also was a traveler who carried a journal with him to record experiences.

Traveling through East Texas in the days prior to the Civil War, Olmstead observed and commented on a frontier Christmas Eve celebration unlike any he had seen before.

He writes: "A band of pleasant spirits started from the square, blowing tin horns, and beating tin pans, and visited in succession every house in the village, kicking in doors, and pulling down fences, until every male member of the family had appeared, with appropriate instruments, and joined the merry party. They then marched to the square, and ended the ceremony with a centupled tin row. In this touching commemoration, as strangers, we were not urged to participate."

There is both humor and irony in Olmstead's record. Strangers were not forced to take part, but all townsmen were. How could anyone resist such a violent imperative? Whether or not one felt like celebrating in the established way, one did.

Americans today find themselves drawn into a similar behavioral conflict.

Christmas in the United States is big business. Critics call it a "sellebration." More televisions, video games, home appliances, toys, clothing, even furniture items, are sold during the weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas than during any other four-week period during the year.

Advertisers don't need to "Kick in doors" nor "pull down fences." Mass media, both print and electronic, bring invitation, blandishment, even the threat of being somehow atypical, into every home.

Despite religious fundamentalist pleas to put "Christ back into Christmas," the holiday is celebrated in the United States far more secularly than religiously. True, many do attend church services and consider these integral to their holiday rejoicing.

But many more do not consider church going as necessary as finding the "perfect gift" for every person on their lists. And, across the century since industrialization catapulted the United States into a lifestyle to conspicuous consumerism, "bought-in-a-store" gifts became superior to home-made ones.

There are signs, though, that "consumer Christmas" is being replaced.

Some families, strapped by an inflation factor outstripping income, are considering needs before wants. And there is more thought going into these needful purchases. Durability is being considered along with usefulness. Ultimate "cost to the environment" is also a factor.

The man or woman who "has eveything" will still receive gifts, but these are far more likely to be practical items designed to start recipients in a new direction, perhaps the beginning of a new occupation or leisure time pursuit.

There also is consideration surfacing this Christmas season indicating a playing down of the purchase of durable goods in favor of giving simple remembrances or coupons for services. This is much in line with the growing realization by Americans that as a nation the United States with 6 percent of the world's population uses 30 percent of its natural resources and 16 percent of its energy.

Materials available from several conservation organizations as well as those from a number of religious denominations suggest "alternative" Christmas celebrations which keep the concept of gift giving but move the money, resources and energy factors away from abuse towards carefully considered use.

Alternative Christmas emphasizes the personal — home made gifts, recycled gifts, or gifts of time, skills or talents. As an aside, our family recycles Christmas wrap as well as gift tags for packages.

The annual wrapping process becomes a pleasant time for reminiscence about how old one son was when he scrawled a particular tag or about whose gift was first wrapped in what piece of paper.

Home made gifts often express care and understanding far deeper than purchased ones. Kitchen craft items have always been high in popularity among teachers and other youth workers who encourage children to "make something mother can use." The hand enameled tuna can my eldest son painted in kindergarten still holds a pot scrubber on my kitchen counter.

There are even fads in hand made items. Last year, spice ropes were "in'. These natural air fresheners not only are decorative but keep a kitchen smelling "baking fresh". Bouquet garni packets to flavor soups and stews are extraordinarily economical when made up in quantity. Home made jams and jellies, especially such novelties as "pyracantha relish" or "wild berry preserves" are remembereable gifts.

Alternative Christmas also suggests redirecting Christmas spending money to "humanity sustainging groups", often ones whose efforts one can measure personally. Items purchased from local boutiques, especially those sponsored by nonprofit community service agencies are often imaginative as well as practical and exceptionally well made. Many groups also offer commercially produced foods, stationery, cookbooks or handcrafts with all profit going to further the work of the nonprofit organization.

Certificates for services are an increasingly popular way to handle gift giving. More personal than a store merchandise order which lets the receiver spend it for whatever he likes, the certificate for service specifies a particular area.

Perspective

The giver contracts with a supplier for a given service — hair styling, dog grooming, telephone answering, baby, sitting — then presents the certificate.

Nomads of the ground

By DR. DAVID R. BARNETT

QUESTION:

We have an armadillo shell which has been polished. It has a loop handle like a basket. My youngest son wanted some information about this strange little animal. The dictionary doesn't provide too much description. Can you help us?

—K. L.

ANSWER:

Because of their bulky protective outer shell, the armadillo lives entirely on the ground, never climbing above it but able to burrow deeply and very quickly with its powerful claws.

There are perhaps 20 species — mostly found in South America. A few have found their way to the southern United States.

Their teeth are all molars, peglike in shape and among the most primitive found in mammals.

They are nomads whose reproduction is extraordinary — a normal birth always consists of quadruplets of the same sex.

Although we usually think of armadillos as a desert or wasteland creature, they actually occupy a variety of habitats, from grassland to forest.

In size they range from the giant armadillo of the tropical forest which weighs up to 100 pounds to the tiny fairy armadillo of Bolivia which measures five inches from tail to snout. The fairy armadillo has fur on its flanks which hangs down below its independent shell, and the young during their early development are hidden in this protective curtain.

Most of us have heard that the "armor-plating" is the armadillo defense against its enemies — and that they roll up in a ball.

Strangely enough, only one species does this — the three-banded armadillo of the Argentine pampas. The others seek safety in burrowing and they can do this with astonishing swiftness — especially in loose or soft soil.

The great naturalist, Charles Darwin, while on horseback said that although he tumbled off his horse to catch one its hind quarters had almost disappeared before he could alight.

Armadillos are extremely sensitive to ground vibrations made by approaching animals which might attack them; certainly they are so quick to take alarm that by the time a searcher gets to where they are, there is often nothing left but a small heap of dug-up earth.

Although they may appear rather unpalatable, their flesh is highly prized by humans — they're meat, we are told, is as tasty as a suckling pig.

They love to sun bathe and fall asleep on their backs. Like dogs they seem to have dreams punctuated by trembling and frequent convulsions.

RECOGNITION FOR NURSING HOME OMBUDSMAN VOLUNTEERS

The 28 volunteers of the 2-year-old Nursing Home Ombudsman Program gathered in the Bay View Federal Savings community room in San Mateo Wednesday afternoon to share their experiences and be recognized for their service. The volunteers assist patients and staff members of the nursing homes with special problems involving food, nursing care, recreation, legal affairs and many other matters. Volunteers such as Linda Eller, center, were presented one- and two-year pins for service. Participating in the presentation were Patricia Lavin, director of social services at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, and Brendan Horan, executive director of the program.

Battle of Bayshore draws a large crowd

Daly City and Brisbane's "custody" fight over the Bayshore Neighborhood and surrounding North County pockets drew a packed house Thursday.

More than 150 persons crowded into Bayshore School in Daly City to hear representatives of the two cities speak before the Local Agency Formation Commission.

That commission is deciding whether Daly City or Brisbane will have the sphere of influence over the following areas:

Bayshore Neighborhood, the Northeast Ridge of San Bruno Mountain, Crocker Industrial Park, Guadalupe Valley Quarry and Owl and Buckeye canyons.

The LAFCo staff has recommended that Brisbane be given the sphere of influence, opening the door to annexation proceedings in the included areas.

Daly City city officials fought hard for their right to keep Bayshore residents in its area, saying that for the past 16 years the city has met their needs well.

Using the "bigger is better" philosophy, the representatives argued that Daly City has better public safety services than Brisbane, that it is in superb financial shape and that it can offer Bayshore whatever it needs.

Brisbane countered that it, too, has excellent police and fire services, that it can offer residents the same range of services Daly City can and that it is the little city that could.

LAFCo staff members noted that the areas "logically" belong to Brisbane because of the geographical locations of the sites.

"The city could be made more viable by adding population and areas," according to staff member Paul Hood, who said Brisbane's population could potentially be increased from about 3,000 residents to 10,000.

Over the boos of the crowd, he added that Bayshore residents would have a greater political voice in Brisbane than they now have in Daly City (where they comprise only 4.5 percent of the total population).

Sherman Coffman, executive director of LAFCo, noted after the meeting that the report is no reflection on Daly City.

He also said he is sorry to see that Bayshore residents apparently do not have an open mind about the matter.

"It is unfortunate that citizens make up their minds before they know all the facts," he said.

No decision on the sphere of influence was made by directors, who agreed to meet Jan. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Lippman School in Brisbane.

Brisbane City Manager Brad Kerwin called the city a "truly full-service" one with the ability to change and the capacity to absorb new residents.

Several of his remarks were directed at the lengthy report Daly City compiled in response to the LAFCo recommendation. He challenged that city's contention that Brisbane can hardly manage its own affairs, must less that of a new and much larger area.

Taking the charges one by one, he refuted claims about a poor water and sewage system, lack of parks and open spaces, uninspired city management, and inadequate police and fire coverage.

Brisbane recently spent $500,000 to upgrade the water system, the sewage system is in good shape, a new municipally owned marina is being built and a recreation center and library are under construction, according to Kerwin.

Police and fire coverage to the involved area would be faster than from Daly City, because Brisbane is closer, he noted.

If Bayshore were brought into Brisbane, he said, the city would buy the Geneva Avenue fire station. Eleven new public safety officers could be added to the staff.

The system of having policemen and firemen inter-change duties works well, Kerwin said, because double the number of officers is available depending on what the crisis is.

Daly City countered that it was the city best eqipped to handle the disputed areas.

Mayor Victor Kyriakis said Daly City needs the new areas to create a better balance of industrial-residential property. Brisbane is over-weighted with industrial land, he said, while Daly City could use more of it.

"The addition of $50 million of taxable sales within the Crocker Industrial Park will assist greatly in raising Daly City's ranking," he said.

City Manager Dave Rowe called it "unprecedented" for Daly City's sphere of influence over the Bayshore Neighborhood to be taken away and given to Brisbane.

"It is indeed unique and unprecedented in its proposal to triple the population of an existing city," he added.

He said Daly City operates a full-time fire station in the Bayshore neighborhood, the city has a better fire rating than Brisbane and police, recreation and library services are better.

"The service capabilities and depth of personnel which can be provided by Daly City cannot be reproduced by a city of 3,000 or even of 10,000 population," he remarked.

On Dec. 15 the members and their husbands will attend their annual Christmas Party at the Black Angus Restaurant in San Mateo.

Hospital recipes for cardiac diet

"People with cardiac disease can entertain during the holiday season and still enjoy many traditional holiday food favorites. By simple modifications in the method of preparation, traditional dishes can be transformed into food that people on special diets can eat," said Marcie Moore, Mary's Help Hospital dietician.

Ms. Moore will discuss the topic "Festive Food: Prudent Heart Holiday Diet for Patients" at the Dec. 11 Heart-to-Heart meeting at Mary's Help Hospital at 10:30 a.m. in the auditorium.

Ms. Moore will provide insight on how to adhere to the Prudent Heart Diet during the holidays.

The diet consists of low cholesterol, low saturated fat and low refined cholesterol intakes as well as no added salt. It is often prescribed for many cardiac disease victims but may be followed by anyone interested in reducing heart-risk factors through a sensible diet. Ms. Moore will share recipes which have been prepared especially for those on the Prudent Heart Diet.

The monthly Heart-to-Heart meetings are coordinated by Gussie Keyes, R.N., Patient Care Coordinator for the Critical Care and Transitional Care Units at Mary's Help Hospital.

Individuals who have suffered from cardiac disease, their families and friends, as well as the general public gather together to learn more about the disease. Speakers provide insight into the medical aspects of the illness and methods of adapting lifestyles and diets to the disease.

Important Note Regarding Prices

The prices shown in the right-hand column on each page of this catalog are for reference only, and no representation is made to the effect that any of these prices is the usual or ordinary price at which a particular item is sold, or our present or former selling price. These reference prices are provided to you as a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our catalog distribution area. They are often useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer.

Most of the prices shown in the right hand column are manufacturer's suggested retail prices supplied to Consumers Distributing. Where manufacturers do not supply suggested retail prices, Consumers Distributing has applied to its cost mark-up percentages based on trade customs (which commonly vary with respect to various types of items) to arrive at a price which it considers to be in accordance with customary trade practices. In any event, these prices may vary in different trading areas depending on shipping and other costs and circumstances which might affect such a price.

No user of this catalog should assume that a savings will be effected or realized in an amount equal to the difference between the figure in the right-hand column and the Consumers Distributing price. In some cases, other retailers may be selling goods at prices equal to or less than Consumers Distributing price for the purpose of clearing goods which are end-of-line or stale merchandise, or by reason of their ordinary business practices.

• All prices are subject to change without notice due to manufacturer's increases or decreases, changes in federal or state taxation or world fluctuations of currencies or the prices of gold, gems and precious metals.

• We're only human so the occasional error may slip through. We are not responsible for typographical and transpositional errors.

• If ever temporary shortages of our advertised items occur, you are assured the special price on a resupply, or comparable savings on a similar item with a similar dollar value.

We reserve the right to limit quantities. •TRADEMARK
